...each component is carried into place by a staple. And the DNA might later be removed - washed or melted away.